Exergen and GE Healthcare announce partnership for product distribution and technology integration

Exergen Corporation and GE Healthcare, a unit of General Electric Company, have recently entered into an agreement for non-exclusive global distribution of Exergen's model TAT-5000, the professional version of Exergen's TemporalScanner Temporal Artery Thermometer. Concurrently, Exergen and GE Healthcare have launched a joint development program to combine the technologies of temporal artery thermometry and vital signs monitoring.
